Means of transportation

• Metro�

Madrid has an extensive and convenient metro system. Tickets can be bought at stations either from a machine (accepting cash, including notes, bank- and credit cards) and usually also from a ticketoffice. A single trip includes any number of transfers. Buy either a single or a 10 trip card (10 viajes), the latter is also valid for the local EMT buses. Trains typically run from 6am to 1:30am.

• Cercanías Renfeo:

Local trains, running regularly withing the province of Madrid. The tickets look very much like the metro tickets, but are NOT the same. Tickets can be bought at stations either from a machine (accepting cash, including notes, bank- and credit cards) or from a ticketoffice. There is a zone system, most of the center is in zone O, the university in B1, the third zone. You can buy single tickets (for 3 zones) or 10 trip cards (Bonotren)

• Taxi's:

Taxi's are numerous and for European standards, reasonably priced. A ride from the airport to the center from 6am to 10pm, costs between \in 35,- and \in 40.

• Buses:

There are two type of buses, the local ones of the EMT (red or blue) and the Interurbanos (green). For the EMT buses you can buy a single in the bus or use the 10 trip metroticket. The interurbanos use separate tickets, which can be bought on the bus. Most bus drivers don't accept notes bigger than $\notin 5,$ -.
